Turnaround Time

24 – 72 hours (Turnaround time will vary based on test panel, sample type and initial results.)

Process

Candidate will proceed to collection site with their photo ID and either an electronic donor pass generated from our site or with a paper chain of custody form provided to them by your organization. The donor will donate their specimen, or it will be collected with the assistance of a trained phlebotomist if necessary. The donor's specimen will either be shipped to the lab for testing or be tested onsite. If the initial test is non-negative, whether tested onsite or at the lab, further testing will occur to confirm the finding.

Results will be transmitted to the Medical Review Officer (MRO) for review. If non-negative, the MRO will reach out to the candidate to complete an interview verifying if there is a medical explanation for the result. Final results will be posted to The Cube for review by your organization.

Results Guidelines

Reporting must comply with State and Federal law. The content of the MRO interview will not be released to the employer or potential employer. If the candidate has a medical explanation that the MRO is able to verify, the result will be reported as negative. If the candidate does not return calls to the MRO, the results will be reported as positive noting the donor did not speak with the MRO. The donor does have the opportunity to dispute the findings. Consultation with qualified legal counsel is recommended for all employment law matters.
